

explanation for changing:
* make password an object instead of a string:

* hold logged in users in the userController:

for biger cohesion.

because we want the password will be as private as we can.

* let only the boardController the direct access for board:

because we want all the data will be changed in one place.

we want the system to be able to know all her logged in users.

* remove the field taker because we does not see a need in it.
